Dedication

Whether we wish to admit it or not, we are the future of our ancestors, as our descendants are our future. We owe our descendants our dreams and bequeath to them the legacy of our collective accomplishments – nothing more and nothing less. To our descendants, we charge you with the honoring of your heritage. Your ancestors were hardy folk, god-fearing and plain spoken, and who recognized that nothing was due them except that which they themselves earned. They were not ashamed to profess their belief in God, their country and the American ideal. Of course, there were a few rapscallions in our collective history, but neither more nor less than in any other family.

We too easily forget what it took to forge a life in a new world, one rife with peril and with little at hand but a steadfast determination to not only survive but to thrive. Our ancestors bequeathed us with their genes, aspirations and talents. It is therefore fitting that the Blandford Series of Yarbrough Family Records be dedicated to them for making it possible for us to be who we are.

To paraphrase Robert Kincaid<sup>1</sup>, "The dreams they had were good ones. They didn't all come true, but they were worth having, all the same."

Acknowledgement

The Yarbrough Association is greatly indebted to the vision and efforts of Cathy Y. Walker and William A. (Bill) Yarbrough, the late president and vice-president of the YNGHA, respectively, for beginning the project to digitize the 150+ volumes of records accumulated over the life of the Association. Fulfilment of the project was through the efforts of a number of officers and members, including Bill's son Mark, Rachel and Don Yarbrough, Hal Yarbrough, Jan and Jim Yarbrough, Ann and Al Bush, Elaine and Lyle Wolf, Joan Y. Singlaub, and Joanne and Bill Augspurger.

It was my privilege to be a part of this dedicated team.

Preface

These records are the legacy of our Yarbrough family researchers, to whom much is owed. The known family researchers include Jean Baker, Ann Y. Broadbent, Mary Y. Daniel, Frances (Rea) Donohue, Betty Humrighouse, Pauline Gray, Evelyn Goble, Nelle Morris Jenkins, Ophelia Kessler, Frances Lockwood, Karen Mazock Renee Smelley, Dorothy Svec, Jeanette Wilson, Cleveland "Cy" Yarbrough, Edna Yarbrough, George A. Yarbrough, and Robert Price Yarbrough.

The originals of these volumes are being kept for the benefit of future generations by the Williamson County Library, Franklin, Tennessee.

No claims of accuracy or authentication of the material herein are made or may be assumed. Many of these records have been superseded by subsequent research. Hence, there are records which are erroneous and unreliable; it would have been a Herculean task to attempt to correct all of them. Fortunately, there are only a few critical genealogical facts that are involved, and which are correctly stated here:

- Richard (the Immigrant) Yarborough was never married to Frances Proctor;
- Ambrose Yarbrough did not immigrant from Yorkshire; he is now believed to be a descendant of Richard the Immigrant;
- There are so far only two proven sons of Old Richard John and Richard II;
- There is so far no evidence proving Joshua Yarborough I to be a descendant of Old Richard.
- The "Old Country" referred to in old documents and letters is the Colony of Virginia, not England or the Old World.
- There were not seven brothers who immigrated from "the old country"; in fact, it now appears there were three brothers and four sons of the brothers. Which were the fathers and which were the sons are so far unknown.

In spite of these inaccuracies, these records comprise much of our history and some of our accomplishments. There are pages whose print quality is so poor that word recognition was not possible. In spite of that, at least partial capability for searching these volumes is provided, as well as an index to each volume. Nonetheless, the viewer is cautioned to perform his/her own due diligence in connection with any use of this material.

The various spellings of the Yarbrough surname have never been applied consistently, even within a given family. To the extent possible, the names in the index reflect the names used on the source pages; where it wasn't clear as to which might be the proper spelling, the spelling used is "Yarbrough".

Between 1750 and 1780 there was a wave of migration toward the Carolina. Many reasons for this have been sighted by other genealogists, such as, the land no longer produced the tobacco crops or other crops as abundantly as in the past. History shows there was an epidemic of smallpox which wiped out some families. Fear of this urged the people to seek the virgin soil and unpopulated areas of that part of North Carolina which the Federal Government opened, Indian lands, to the white settlers. North Carolina did not become a state until 1789.

Just who and how many of the Yarboroughs left Virginia for the Carolinas is not certain, but the story of of one such group was told to Yarbrough kin of Lexington, N. C. in 1898. The story was retold by George Yarborough, who was a descendant of Manoha and Littleton Yarbrough; .

the story was printed in the Lexington, N. C. Dispatch, January 5, 1898. As the story related to men who came to North Carolina more than one hundred years before the article was printed, we must view it as legend. The article states: "Between the years of 1729 and 1775, seven brothers of Yarbroughs went (from Amelia Co., Va.) over to Louisburg, Franklin Co., North Carolina. Their names were Zachariah, Archibald, Manoha, Alexander, Thomas, Henry and John."

While some of the above named do appear on the State Census 1764-1779, Dept. of Archives, Raleigh, N. C., it is doubtful that the Yarboroughs mentioned in the article were sons of the same Father. Perhaps, "brothers of Yarbroughs" meant they left brothers in Amelia Co. or elsewhere, but came as a group of Yarbrough kin.

In a record such as this, it would be impossible to trace each man of the generation mentioned in the above article. By the 1790 Census, most of the Yarbrough -Yarborough families were gone to another locality. There are many records to be found in North Carolina which pertain to those Yarboroughs mentioned in the following Censuses.

Orange Co., Virginia

Joel Yarbrough was witness to an estate settlement of John Barnett. (Will book 2 - 1744-1778) May 24, 1750.

LOWE

The Court House of Orangeburgh County, South Carolina, was burned during the Civil War which makes genealogical research almost impossible unless the records needed are of such nature that they would have been deposited in the South Carolina Archives or in the National Archives in Washington, D. C.

The only records found that tend to identify our early Lowe family are the census records of Orangeburgh County, a State land Grant and a State Indent issued in payment for supplies to the military during the Parallel.

tary during the Revolutionary War.

Thomas Lowe was issued a land grant along the Edisto River in Orangeburgh District in 1768.

On December 19th, 1783, there began a series of claims and indents for one John Lowe of Orangeburgh County, South Carolina, that continued through January 14th, 1788 when this letter from John Lowe seems to have closed the file on his claims
The 14th January 1788

Dear Sir:

Will you be so obliging as to call at the Treasurer's office for an indent as I supplied our troops with three head of cattle and some other provisions in the time of the War. Don't fail and I will amply satisfy you for any trouble you may be at because I am in want of indent to pay tax.

I am as ever, your sincere friend,

JOHN LOWE

On February 2nd, 1788 - John Low Acct....Rec'd 2 February 1788 from the State a full satisfaction for the within account in an indent #3318 X.

JOHN COOK

Photostats of these papers were obtained from the Archives of South Carolina.

There appears in the 1790 Census of Orangeburgh County, one John Lowe as head of a household; no Lowes appear after this date in the census records for Orangeburgh County.

However, in the 1800 Newberry County Census, John Lowe appears - age to 45 1 Female to 45 1 Male 10-16 1 Male 16-26 1 Female 10-16

In the 1810 Newberry County Census, John Lowe appears -

age to 45
1 Female to 45
1 Male 45 plus

In the 1820 Newberry County Census, John Lowe again appears - to 45

age to 45 1 Female to 45 1 Male 45 plus

In Newberry County was one Samuel Cannon who died there in 1791 and in whose will are named his wife, Lydia, daughter of Isaac Pennington, and his children - one of whom was Lydia (unmarried). Could this Lydia Cannon be the same Lydia Cannon who married John Lowe?

In Spartanburg County there was one John Cannon who died in 1788 when his will was probated; he named his wife, Sarah, and one daughter, Lydia (also unmarried). Could this be our Lydia who married John Lowe?

In Hickman County, Tennessee, on February 10th, 1836, a land grant was issued to Lydia Lowe - Grant #13361.

In Bedford County, Tennessee, Deed Book "FF", Page 113 -Gabriel Low buys of William B. Jordan, land on Alexander's Creek 9th December 1836.

Page 478 -

Gabriel Low buys of Leah W. Morrison, land in Bedford County on Alexander's Creek, 5th September 1836. Witness - John Low

Deed Book "JJ", Page 145 -Trust Deed from Littleberry Still to Gabriel Low, to secure a debt, both of Bedford County, 6 January 1840.

Deed Book "KK", Page 133-4 -Two deeds, 123 acres, from Evan Wallace to Gabriel Low - land on Alexander's Creek, 12 January 1841.

There is a Will in Orange County, North Carolina, probated September 1768, for Isaac Greason, Teste who identifies Margaret Greason as the wife of ...... Lowe.

Family tradition has it that Lydia Cannon Lowe came across the mountains with her family who considered her a woman of courage. Since no mention that any one could recall was ever made to her husband, it was presumed that she was a widow when she came into Tennessee.

No public or family record substantiates this tradition unless at some future date, a researcher will identify the Lydia Lowe who received the land Grant in Hickman County as being the same Lydia Lowe who was buried under a tree in the orchard of her son, Gabriel Lowe, in Williamson County.

The grave was unmarked but a granddaughter remembers playing around the grave and feeling sorry for the little old lady lying below.

John Lowe and Lydia Cannon had, among probable others -Gabriel A. Low, born 8 March 1808, Springfield, Orangeburgh District, South Carolina, died 7 March 1882 in Williamson County, Tennessee, where his obituary reads as follows -"A well known citizen of Williamson County, Tennesse, was born March 8, 1808 in South Carolina. From there he moved to White Oak Springs in East Tennessee, and from there to Bedford County and later to Williamson County. After a long life of energy, industry, sobriety and fair dealings, he died. He was buried last Tuesday in his own Cemeterv among the members of his family who had preceded him. In 1842, he professed religion and joined the church; he was a Methodist and lived a consistent member always, ready for every good work and word. The Rev. W. R. Peebles on this sad occasion delivered a very acceptable sermon and accounted the many virtures and excellencies of this good man's life and character. Thus, one by one, the pioneer fathers are being torn from us by the rude hand of death. The men of this stamp are getting too scarce in our County and State. In the busy field of Official Life he never entered, he was satisfied to remain in the quiet vale of life and discharge to the full all the duties exacted of him in amassing property and rearing a large and refined family of children. His example is a bright one to be followed by the present generation of young man. To his bereaved family we send words of condolence, earnestly we say 'imitate his example'." We first see Gabriel Low when he appeared in the 1830 Williamson County, Tennessee, Census, as a married man between 20-30, wife between 20-30, one male and one female, both under Next we find him in the 1840 Bedford County, Tennessee, Census; also in the 1850 Bedford County Census; by 1860, he has moved back into Williamson County where he appeared in the 1880 Census.   Bl Rhoda Low.

In a small note book belonging to Gabriel Low there are names and birth dates some of which are identifiable and others that are not, viz -

Ellis Low, born 22 January 1799.
Harding Low, born 9 June 1802.
James Low, born 5 October 1804.
William Low, born 6 February 1807.
Gabriel Low, born 8 March 1808.

Jonas Low, born 14 April 1811.
John C. Low, born 17 March 1815.
Julian Francis Low, born 20 June 1816.
Would these be the brothers and sisters of Gabriel Lowe? By the order of birth, they might well be.

PINKSTON

The first knowledge we have of the Pinkston family appears in Rowan County, North Carolina, where the will of William Pinkston, Sr., dated 27 July 1815, was probated November 1815 (Book G, P. 695) and in which he named his wife. Ann. and the following children.

and in which he named his wife, Ann, and the following children:

Al Meshack Pinkston who appears in the 1820 Census of Davidson County, Tennessee, as being 45 years old, wife 45 years, three sons under 10 years and two daughters under 16 years.

Peter Pinkston appears in the 1820 Census of Davidson County, Tennessee, as being over 45 years of age, as was his wife; his will, dated 1838, was probated March Term of Court 1840, in Williamson County; married Frances . . . . whose will was dated 18 June 1858 and probated April Term of Court 1860, in Williamson County (Will Book 13, P. 177) and in this will, Frances Pinkston named as her only legatee, Sarah Angelina Jamison, her daughter, who appeared in Court and was given $4000.00 with Thomas N. Pinkston and George W. Pollard as Securities. Her will was witnessed - B. C. Barnes and S. M. Jamison (presumably her son-in-law).

The will of Peter Pinkston names "My beloved wife, Frances Pinkston, all stock, farming

17 Feb. William Yarbrough, final estate account. There is an oath attached, sworn to in Nansemond County, Va., by Richard Yarbrough which states the reason that appraisers were not present at the sale was because of his remote situation and apprehensions that the estate might be wasted by an imprudent brother who had been in possession of it and who had wasted a considerable part of it, says negroes fled to him in Petersburg to prevent James S. Yarbrough conveying them to Mississippi the place that he was then destined for ... reason he is tardy filing estate was that he had settled with all parties interested under his father's will except a younger brother who also went out of this county but he having safely returned Richard felt it right to transmit papers to Prince Edward Court to be recorded.

EXPLANATION

When the Caswell County Historical Association invited me to meet with them and talk about the county, I immediately accepted with the view of giving some history of grandfather Yarbrough and his business. Not once did I realize what I was undertaking, but later found what a job it was.

Then I decided to make a few mimograph copies of my paper for the family and any friends who might like one. I thought a picture of the few remaining articles made in the foundry would be interesting. The pictures herewith are actual copies of photographs of these articles. The photographs of grandfather and grandmother Bradsher have no connection with the paper or contents.

Mention was made of a few persons in the paper. The one in California who provided a machine to use an alternating current of electricity and preduce a direct current was Charles G. Yarbrough. The one connected with Phelps Dodge Mining Company of Arizona was W. B. Yarbrough. The one supervising the installation of machinery at The Kerr Dam was Charles T. Yarbrough. The one sent to Africa was Herbert C. Yarbrough. These latter two are the ones assisted ing in the supervision of installing the machinery at Miagra Falls. The one connected with the Mavy is Charles A. Goodwyn. The one handling the public works for a North Carolina town is Jos C. Yarbrough.

There are several other persons that I wished to mention, but held myself to those following the mechanical mind of grandfather Yarbrough.

E. S. Yarbrough
Durham, North Carolina
April 13th., 1960

Critisli is a worderful county. Some of North Carolina's most outstanding citisens were born and reared here and their lives have given it an inspiring history. Its future will be determined by our thoughts, our ambitions and our decise

The small bit of history that I am bringing you tonight is written largely from the memory of those who lived during the periods or part of the periods mentioned, supplemented by facts taken from deeds, wills and other authenticated sources. It is going to be necessary to mention the mass Terbrough often for men of this family were the master forces behind the industries to be discussed, so please pardon me for doing so. The period under discussion began about 1800 and comes down to the present time.

Country Line Creek comes into Caswell County at the southwest corner and Plows diagonally across the county, passing near Locust Hill, Yanceyville and Haner and empties into the Dan River near Milton. Its bottom lands were and still are very fertile and will produce excellent crops, capacially of corne The volume of water in this stream is mifficient to produce power for any small inductry.

The Old Milton and Greensbore stage read followed the general direction on the hills north of and adjacent to the creek. Many of the first families of the county owned handsoms homes on this read and fa med the hills and fortile better lands, growing mostly corn, wheat and tobacco. They also established grist mills and flour mills on the banks of the creek utilizing the water power. Our distinguished Eartlett Tancey, in his time said, "The lands adjacent to Country line Creek are generally esteemed as the first quality in the county." And he mentioned pine timber and flour as two of the leading products of this section.

Early mills located on this creek were Womack's near Yanceyville, King's, Long's, Clay's near Semora and Thomas's at Milton.

The one claiming our interest tonight was the Clay Mill at Country Line Creek bridge near Semora, reached by traveling east on the Greensboro Milton stage road and turning south about five miles west of Milton, going down the hill three miles and crossing the creek on a spoden bridge, not a covered one, although there were many such in those days. A short distance below the bridge a power dam had been built and below the dam was a three story mill building containing the necessary machinery for grind, wheat into flour and its by-products, and machinery for grinding corn into meal. There was also considerable storage space for the grains and finished products. Each mill was a seperate unit driven by its own water shoel. Attached to the mill building proper was a long shed under which was a samill with its separate driving wheel.

In the early eighteen hundreds Judge Joseph Yarbrough and his wife, Temperarco Malton, lived in Lunenburg County, Virginia, where they were owners of many acres of land and operated a grist mill and a flour mill on the Meherrin River. Among their large family was a son named Richard, who on December 23rd, 1817 wed Tabitha Johns and moved to Caswell County where he bought about fifteen hundred acres of land bordering Country Idne Creek and The Clay Mill property. On November 15th, 1821 he bought from Henry M. Clay one half interest in the mill and mill tract of land, and operated it jointly with Clay until January 12th, 1829. At this time his brother Joseph came from Virginia and bought the half ineterest o med by Clay. Thus on this date the organization became Yarbrough's Mill and was operated by these two brothers until 1837 when Richard bought Joseph's interest and became the sole owner and operator. Joseph must have remained in the mill business and became an expert in handling millstones, for January 24th, 1860 the United States patent office issued patent number 26943 to Joseph Yare brough of Milton, R. C. for Improvement in Dressing Millstones.

Richard prospered both with his farming and mills. However he endorsed a note for a friend to establish a mill in Danville, Virginia, and on July 25th, 1846 was called on to take up the note. To do so he was forced to sell his farms, his mills in Caswell County, and all of his interest in the Mirtha Walton estate in Prince Edward County Virginia. His oldest son, Joseph Joel, then twenty five years old, unmarried and already a well to do farmer and merchant bought the entire estate.

Since from this period on the management, the control and the expansion of Yarbrough's Mill was in the hands of one man it might be well and interesting to hmow something of him. Joseph Joel Yarbrough was born June 24th, 1821, being the eldest son of Richard and Tabitha Johns Yarbrough. His great grandfather was Joel John, a chaplain under George Washington in the Revolutionary War and later a minister of the gospel in Lunenburg County, Virginia, as well as a prosperous farmer. His maternal grandmother was Temperance Walton, a nices of Georgo Walton, one of the signers of The Declaration of Independence. His mother and father were young and pious Christians, belonging to Shiloh Baptist Church, which still stands on the Semora Road near Milton. Early in life he connected himself with this church and became one of its young leaders. This fidelity to his church continued throughout his life. His education was the best that could be obtained from the local schools of his day. This was greatly supplemented by his love for books and magazines, especially the trade magazines dealing with mechanics. He spent the daytime of his early years between farming and meriding ut his father's mill, and his evenings were doveled to reading.

This young bachelor, a mechanical genius and an avid roader, as well as a hard morker, took over the management of more than fifteen hundred acres of farming lands as well as the operation of the mills and a general store. However being a min of vision and determination he immediately set about to enlarge his operations. His first step was to build a blacksmith shop to be used for shocing horses and doing general repair work on farm machinery and household utensils.

The shop started using only one man but soon grew so that five men were required to do the immense amount of work that came in-

It was soon learned that many parts of wood were needed in doing the repair work on the different articles. To take care of this need a small woodworking the care set up. It soon became necessary to increase its machinery to two lathes, two table saws, two assembly tables and with many lesser toolse

But Joe Yarbrough wanted to be more than a repairer of broken and worn articles so he conceived the idea of a foundry. In addition to being a man with a been mind for handling mechanical items, he was of a creative nature and a good organizer. He selected an expert miller and put him in charge of the grinding of flour and meal. He put an excellent man in charge of the blacksmith shop and another in the wood shop. To aid in looking after his growing business he secured the services of a first cousin, William Yarbrough, as his general superientendent. With this new organization he and William were able to devote the needed time for getting the foundry established and in operation.

The primariable of foundry work is simple, but the practice of it requires much skill and special knowledge, much special treatise must be consulted for details of the work. A foundry is an establishment for casting, which consists in pouring molten metal into a suitable shaped mold in which it cools and solidifies, thus forming a metal figure of the shape of the mold. The molds are formed of loam molding sand. To form this mold a patern is required, usually of wood, and patern making for casting metal parts for machinery or any utensils forms a specepatterns are formed exactly alike the part of parts to be cast. Most metals can be cast but it was decided to major in iron works for farming implements, as well as household utensils and some toys and ornaments. Scrap or pig iron was melted in a tall furnace called a cupola. Coke, charcoal or a special coal was used for melting and a forced draught of air was required to make the fire hot enough to melt the iron. The molten iron was transfered from the cupola to the molds with the use of a long handle ladle.

Products coming from the foundry are in the rough and while some of them may be used in this rough state, many have to be smoothed or as we say, machined so that they may be made to fit into other parts of whatever is being made. To meet this need a machine shop was added, which contained lathes, power drills, files, and other necessary machinery for shaping and assembling the different parts.

Some of the men from each shop and foundry became experts and turned out beautiful specimens of workmaship in wrought iron, east iron and wood. Parts of a play wagon, now in existence, made for the eldest son of Joe Yarbrough shows the dexterity of their craftsmanship. The frame of the magon was made in the blacksmith shop. The whoels were cans in the foundry. The ends of the axle were turned in the machine shop so that they would fit in the hubs of the sheels. The tongue was dressed and fitted in the wood shop. Each workman had his part to do and they all combined their efforts in producing a well made wagon. Likewise they produced plow parts in the foundry and the plow handles in the wood shop. The bolts and nuts were wrought in the blacksmith shop and all taken to the machine shop for assembly.

With the set up of three shops cooperating, coupled with the expert workmanship of the experienced men and the general supervision of a master mind the time Now in existence are some articles or parts of articles that were made here about one hundred years ago. Mrs. Ed walker of Milton has a heating store; Mrs. Panks Satterfield of Milton a large sppon; Tom Yarbrough of Locust Hill a forty-five gallon kettle; Mrs. Robert O'Briant of Durham a brass pot and morter with postle; E. S. Yarbrough of Durham parts of a play wagon and a frog. The first steel fence around your court house was made and put up by this organization. Many years later it was sent away for repairs and for some reason has mover been returned. Caroline McAden of Semora has a coffee mill.

Business increased rapidly and by the early eighteen hundred fifties there was quite an industrial plant, including the three shops, the foundry, the store, the grist mill, the flour mill and the sammill. The foundry and three shops and store were on the west side of the creek and the mecessary power needed was generated by an overshop water wheel on the same side and transfered to the shops by an overhead wooden shaft. This power was supplemented by horse power if and when the flow of water in the creek was low. Bary to rimm were needed which necessitated the erection of several homes around or mean the plant.

In the midst of completing his shops and foundry and putting his organization on a working and paying basis, Jos Yarbrough on October Slot, 1848 wed Rebosca Emily Chipman of Guilford County. He soon created a home on the hill cast of the creek and overlooking the industrial plants

To this union were born five sons and one daughter. One son lived only two years and the others when not in school had ample time to acquaint themselves with the work in progress. Charles Joel, the oldest son, devoted his time to farming a Joseph Joel, Jr., liked the wood shop and gave his time mostly to making patterns for foundry use. In this work he became an expert. George B. gave his attention and time to grinding flour and most. Sichard took over the management of the general store and was quite successful with it. These sons growing up in the business soon became very valuable assets to their father.

The business grow and prospered steadily until the Civil war broke out. Joe Yarbrough was sent to Salisbury to superintend the manufacture of ammunitions for the Scathern Army and was titled Captain. He retained this title and was called Captain Joe Yarbrough the remainder of his life.

During this period of fighting, practically all the men were called into service. With the head of the firm away and labor almost impossible to secure. and all the scrap iron taken over by the military forces for amminitions the industrial plants suffered almost to a breaking point.

However, when the war was over Captian Jos Yarbrough came home. The boys grow to be man. Labor became more plentiful and working materials were available. The foundry and chops as well as the mills took on new life and soon the problem of distribution arose.

In the absence of railway freight and trucking transportation Yarbrough's Foundry begun delivery with a heavy covered wagon. To this were hitched six males or horses and two men put in charge. Various products of the plant consisting of plows, plew castings, household equipment such as andirons, skillets, lids, pots and stoves as well as many smaller articles of cast or wrought iron were loaded. Each icam, and there were several, had a certain territory to cover for the sale of their loads. As they sold they took orders for delivery on the next trip, and picked up such scrap iron as might be found suitable for recasting at the foundry. Time required to make these trips depended on the distance and the load carried.

South Carolina went to South Carolina, Virginia and Tennessee.

The operation of the foundry required a wast amount of charcoal for use in the cupola. This need created a new industry in the surrounding country. Hany people took up the trade of burning charcoal, which was really stacking a pilo of pine wood on ends making a large cone like heap and covering it with wet ashes or sod, leaving holes at the bottom for air to get in, pormitting the wood to burn slowly, and an opening at the top for the smoke to escape. When the wood was burned fully it was left for several days to cool off. The ashes or sod were then removed and the charcoal was ready for use. It was hauled to the foundry and sold. Pine trees were plentiful and cheap and very little labor was required in the preparation of the kiln so the burning and selling of charcoal became quite a profitable industry for many miles around the plant.

In the midst of these prosperous times the United States Government, in order to give the community better mil facilities, established a post office in the general store and maned it Yarbro in honor of Captain Joe Yarbrough. The office opened for business April 2nd, 1887 and Richard Yarbrough was postmastered

Captain Joe Yarbrough using his ingomity contrived many labor saving fixetures for the comfort of the home. He placed on his front gate an opener with which the driver could open and close the gate without leaving the driver's seato. There were no window screens in those days and the flies were a pest. He made an overhead frame for his diming table and fastened long strips of paper to it. The frame could be operated by foot power of one sitting at the table and this moved the strips of paper like a fan and drove the flies away. For bringing water from a distant spring he installed a mochanical overhead trummy which brought the water in a bucket to the back door. Two such carriers are known to have been installed. One at his own home and one at the Stamps' home, now comed by Miss Annie Yarbey Gayne.

Probably the climax of this man's ability came whon he conceived the idea of a low pressure turbine water wheel. During a very busy season, the grist mill and flour mill running day and night, trouble developed in the wheels which were furnishing the water power. Captain Joe Yarbrough had long cherished an idea that he could make a bette wheel than the ones most in use. He drow his plans, had his shop make the patterns, the foundry cast the blades and the machine shop shape an iron driving shaft. When properly assembled and put in place and the water turned on, he was more than pleased with the results. He quickly made two similar wheels and installed one each for the grist mill, the flour mill and the sawmill. These wheels solved the problem so well that he devoted much of his future time in making and installing them in other mills. This type turbine water wheel has become the standard now being manufactured by the leading mater wheel industries in The United States and are the prevailing wheels, not only in this country, but in many of the foreign countries. This very type was installed a few years ago at the Ker- Dam on the Roanoke River. The same type is being installed at the gigantic Niegra Falls Electric plant. However the wheels at the Yarbrough Mills produced only twenty horse power, while those at the Kerr Dam give 60 000 horse power each, and those at Niagra Fulls are designed to produce 225 000 horsepower. A note of interest is that Captain Joe Yarbrough designed and made his absolu at his own four ry and installed them, and that one of his great grandsons supervised the installation and connecting the generators at the Kerr Dam, and that the same great grandson and another great grandson are now assisting in the supervision of the mammouth installation at Niagra Fallso

For many years Yarbrough s foundry and mills flourished and did a tremendous business. The plant was probably the outstanding industry in Caswell County and was selling its products in four states. However in 1893 a panie Came. One of the worse that has ever been experienced in The United States.

Money was almost impossible to get. Business came to a standstill. There was very little selling or buying. The Yarbrough industries virtually closed down.

Very little was done in any of the shops. Even the grist and flour mills were running on short time. The crash had an ill effect on the owner and his health began to fail. He was never able to get back on his feet. When times did get better, more railroads came into existence and other foundries located on the railroads could ship their products and sell much cheaper than could be done by wagon delivery. Captain Joe Yarbrough did very little business in those days and on April 26th, 1896 died and was buried on the hill east of the creek and everlocking the site of his once prosperous industrial plant and community. A few years later his grist mill and flour mill burned. The buildings that once housed the shops and foundry were sold and moved away. The post office, YARBRO, was abolished October 14th, 1904.

Thus came the end of Yarbrough's Mills and Foundry. Today three cast iron turbine water wheels, cast probably more than one hundred years ago, buried deep in the sandland debris, in their original location, are all that remains of what case was a prosperous community. In 1934, with a party, I visited the site and found there one vertical water wheel shaft sticking out above the sand and surpounding shrubbery, but badly bent from floods and debris that had been sweeping the sight of installation.

captain Joe Yarbrough is gone. Eo other vestige of his plant is left except the three turbine water wheels buried deep in the sand. But the spirit of this good man who was a genius, lives on in his descendents. One of his granders who upon receiving a degree in Table 1. Engineering in 1895 from State College was called to Chapel Hill to erect a power plant and install the complete equipment for the first electric lighting system of The University of North Carolino. In the early minoteen hundreds he settled in Glendale California. At that time business was just getting started in making moving pictures and it was found that a direct current made much better lights than did the alternating current which was the only current available. To meet this need this grandson designed a special machine which consisted of putting an alternating current motor on one end of a shaft and a direct current generator on the other end and produced the direct current that was needed. This type machine is now used entirely by the motion pice ture industry and is manufactured by one of the largest electric manufacturing equations in The United States. Another grandson, Chief Electrical Engineer for the Pholps Dodge Mining Company at Ajo, Arizona, designed and had complete supervision of the installation of the multi-million dellar electrification of their entire mining plant at that location. He is now retired and lives in Caswell County. A great grandson had complete charge of the installation of the electric equipment at the Kerr Dam located on the Reanoke Siver.

when our government built the mamouth airport for the Air Force in Africa a few years ago, and was ready to open it for use, the electric machinery and equipment would not operate. Another groat-grandson was sent from The United States to Africa to investigate. He was there only a short while before he had the complete electric equipment working smoothly.

At the present time these two great grandsons are assisting in the supervision of the installation of the gigantic electric equipment at Niagra Fillso

A great grandson recently cleated to the presidency of the Virginia Society of Professional Engineers, is now Director, Construction Division, District Public Works Office, Fifth Naval District, Horfolk, Virginia and as such, is the chief civilian responsible for construction at naval shore facilities in that District.

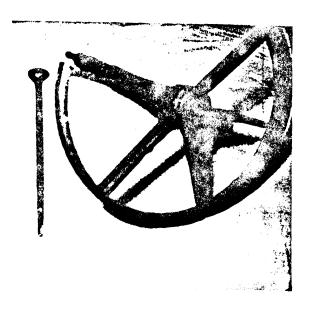

He is also listed in "Who?s Who in Engineering."

Still another great grandson, although yet very young, is in full charge of the public works of one of the large cities in North Carolina.

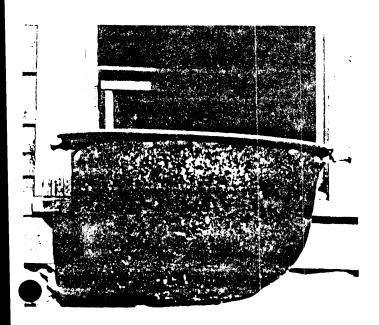

Other descendents have been successful bankers, farmers, teachers, salesmen, merchants, entertainers and high officials in the armed forces.

Last, but by no means least, the Christian spirit that was outstanding and dominant in Captain Joe Yarbrough's life still exists and is very prominent in the lives of many of his grandshildren, his great grandshildren and great grandshildren.

The extensive Yarbrough enterprises on Country Line citch south of Miltor stand as unusual for any section of North Carolina in the antebelum period. Joseph Joel Yarbrough was born nearby in 1811, the son of Richard who moved to Caswell County from Landburg County, Virginia, and in 1819 began accounting land along the creek. In 1821 he acquired a grist and sawmill, and they soon came to be known as Yarbrough's Mill. In 18:16 the younger Yarbrough. Joseph Joel, purchased the gristnill, flour mill, and sawmill which his father had developed. Two years later the 27-year-old man acquired another V. brough mill on Country Line Creek and through his natural mechanical genius began the development of an industrial establishment of remarkable complexity. He also assumed the management of more than 1.500 acres of farming land and the management of a general store. Yarbrough began the expansion of his enterprise with the opening of a blacksmith shop not only to shoe his horses but also to engage in general report work on farm machinery and household utensils. Within a short time the business of the shop required the labor of five con. The repair work soon made necessary the opening of a look of ing shop, and it quickly grew to the point where took is, two table saws.

two assembly tables, and additional machiner, were employed.

Joseph Yarbrough's vision broadened and la togan to think about establishing a foundry. His creative nation and has still as an organizer were put to work. He employed as expert miller to manage his grist and flour mills and place capable men in charge of the blacksmith sti; and the woodworking shop. A cousin was brought in as general superintendent of the expanding business, : 1 Joseph Yarbrough began planning the foundry. In the to odry sand molds would be used to form articles of iron. (1.1 wooden patterns would be needed to make the sand mit? Molter from would be poured into the molds and tiet when the pieces were cool, they would have to be so thed or machined from their rough state. A part of this process required the opening of still another unit in the Yarbrough enterprise-a machine shop. Lathes, power drill, files, and other machinery were installed to make possible the shaping and assembling of the different parts that would go to make a finished whole: stoves, corn shellers, threshing muchines, axles and wheels, and so on.

The making of a child's wagon for Yarbrough's eldest son demonstrates how the various shops cooperated. The wagon, arts of which still exist, was made of wrought iron, cast iron, and wood. The frame was made in the blacksmith shop. The wheels were cast in the foundry. The ends of the axle were turned in the machine shop so that they would fit in the hubs of the wheels. The tongue was dressed and fitted in the wood shop. Each workman had a part to play in the construction of this wagon, and the combined effort of all produced a well made product. In the same manner the men produced plow arts in the foundry and handles in the wood shop. Bolts and nuts were wrought in the blacksmith shop and all delivered to the machine shop for assembly.

Close cooperation of skilled workmen in three shops made it possible for the Yarbrough establishment to produce almost any iron, steel, or wood product that was needed, who necessary, parts were carefully machined so that they fitted together and functioned properly. Wares of various kind survive from the mills on Country Line Creek: a heating stove, a large spoon, a 45-gallon kettle, a brass pot a morte and pestle, a doorstop in the shape of a frog, and other cliects. The first iron fence around the Caswell Country Courthouse was made by Yarbrough, but many years later it was taken down for repairs and never restored.

Two products of the Yarbrough Foundry. The long-handled spoon was used in stirring large pots in the fireplace. This one is owned by Mrs. L. B. Satterfield, Milton. The door weighs ten or fifteen pounds, the base 150 pounds or more, and the top more than 200 pounds.

Power for the foundry and the three shops was generated by an over-shot water wheel and transferred to the shops by an overhead wooden shaft. When a dry season reduced the flow of water, horse power would be substituted.

Workmen at the mills, shops, and foundry built home nearby. The store provided an opportunity to purchase needed supplies, and eventually a postoffice. Farbro, were opened to serve the community. Yarbrough was married in 1848 and he, too, had a home on a hill overlooking the creek

During the Civil War Joseph Yarbrough was sent to Salisbury to superintend a munitions factory. Most of the men who worked for him were called to join the army, and his stock of scrap and rig iron was taken by the government for armunition and other industrial plants. With the end of the war "Captain" Yarbrough returned home and reopened his businesses. His sons joined him; one managed the farming another took over the wood shop and became particularly adept in making patterns for foundry use; another attended to the gristmill and flour mills; and another managed the store. The foundry, the shops, and the mills took on new life but new problem arose.

The distribution and sale of wares before the war had been relatively simple. Deliveries had been made with a heavy covered wagon at first. It was pulled by six mules or horses and was in charge of two men. Additional teams were added as required to deliver the growing list of products: plows, andirons, skillets, pots, stoves, and other cast or wrought iron the continuous one-horse turning plow manufactured of Yarbi legal's Leandry about 0.876 under the trade-name "Harmer's Friend". This plow was used near Bayties 81.963; the Firch family for eighty of more years.

goods. Each team had a regular territory to cover, and as goods were delivered orders were taken for a later trip. Ir. addition to serving various parts of North Carolina and nearby Virginia, these wagons sometimes made their way down to South Carolina or over to Tennessee. The expansion of railroads after the war made it possible for other dealers to deliver their wares more quickly and cheaper than could Yarbrough, but this was a handicap that might have been met except for the Panic of 1893 which brought business to a standstill. The Yarbrough industries all but closed, the demand for their services and products was so limited. Captain Yarbrough's health began to fail, and even though he attempted to return to work he never really succeeded. He died in 1896. A few years later the Yarbrough grist and flour mills burned; the buildings that housed the shops and the foundry were sold and moved away. The postoffice was abolished in 1904. The site of the extensive Yarbrough manufacturing complex is marked today by three cast iron turbine water wheels buried in the sand beside Country Line Creek. The genius of Captain Yarbrough has not disappeared. A grandson and several great-grandsons become professional engineers, and they have installed electrical machinery as close to home as at the Kerr Lake Dam and as far away as Africa.

Of all the manufacturing carried on in the county before the Civil War, it was tobacco which involved the most money both in capital invested and in the value of the product and which involved the most people. There were nine such businesses identified in 1850 and eleven in 1860. During that ten-year period the amount of capital invested grew from $55,200 to $257,500, while the value of the processed tobacco increased from $123,252 to $345,400. The number of people employed increased from 189 to $52 Five firms which were in business in 1850 were also active ten years later: Zenith Page, George A. Smith, Sandel Watkins, Wilkinson & Fuller, and John Wilson, J. A. Stanfield operated in Leasburg: Zenith Page in Locust Hill: R. H. Lewis, George A. Smith, Samuel Watkins. Wilkinson & Fuller, and John Wilson were in Milton: and Graves & Law, Graves & Vernon, Yancey Jones, and James K. Lea were in Yanceyville.

In 1850 there were three tobacco peddlers in the county: Royal McKinney, Soloman Merritt, and William Whitmore. There were a dozen men. however, who declared their occupation to be that of a "tobacconist." They were Pinkney Burton, Joshua Butler, William F. Butler, Larkin S. Grinstead, William Lewis, Raleigh McLaughlin, Isley Phillips, R. H. Pritchett, James Read, Rufus Rainey, Williba Shelton, and Joseph M. Swift. In 1860 N. C. Motley and John Denny, both natives of Virginia but living in Caswell County, were described as "traders on tobacco." Sixteen tobacconists were listed: J. Q. Anderson, B. Brown, Jr., T. J. Brown, William Brown, Allen Gunn, G. W. Gunn, H. Harrell, J. H. McCaden, William D. Mitchell, H. M. Roan, W. N. Shelton, S. T. Sparks, William H. Vaden, C. D. Vernon, John L. Williamson, and A. G. Yancey.

During the first half of the nineteenth century there were many excellent artisens at work in Caswell County. Among them was Chordy Hogan Whit hart, gunsmith. Born in 1819 on a farm just across the liver of Orange County, Whiteheart's father was a veteran of the Revolution. Chordy learned the trade of gunsmith and as a young man settled near Hart's Chapel, the present Bethes.'s Presbyterian Church, in western Caswell. Here he built a p stop with power probably furnished from a small dan at I water wheel on Cobbs Creck which divided property whill he owned from that owned by his father-in-law, Forrestor Stablack. Whiteheart's specialty was the long rifle, and at least six that he made have survived. A boring machine which he weld was known a few years ago. but its present whereabout his not been determined. All of Whiteheart's flint rifles are northed "C. W., Caswell, N. C." Toward the end of the 1850. Whiteheart moved to Guilford County, and in the spring and suramer of 1860 he sold his

The Heritage of Caswell County North Carolina 1985

Jeannine D. Whitlow, Editor

Published by the Caswell County Historical Association in cooperation with Hunter Publishing Company Winston-Salem, North Carolina

Court ordered the county treasurer, Azariah Graves, to receive the keys. An act of the 1833 Legislature ordered the town incorporated as 'Yanceyville.'

In 1825 James Yancey purchased for Caswell County the first land the county bought other than the one acre square. Eighty acres for $4.00 per acre bought from Starling and Griffin Gunn about 2 miles north of the Court House was for the location of the first poor house. This institution was a model for its time, built by William Chiles, and was completed in 1826 at a cost of $863. Facilities were available to contain mental patients also. In July 1827, $130 was paid to build smoke house, corn crib, and kitchen at the poor house. The buildings lasted for 100 years. It was in the 1920's that a new county home was built across the highway and even then the old house was used for those with contagious dis-

Caswell County had been formed for 51 years when in July 1828 James Yancey ordered a committee to wit: James Miles, Bedford Brown, and John Wilson, to "inquire into the expediency of lessening county taxes for the next year". It was so done, the tax rate was reduced from 6¢ to 5¢ on $100 worth of property and poll tax reduced from 25¢ to 20¢. In addition the jailor's fee for daily maintenance of a prisoner was reduced from 40¢ to 30¢.

James Yancey led the way for firmly establishing a conservative and progressive county government for which he has never received any commendation. He made the first gesture for education in 1802 in helping establish Caswell Academy. He had foresight to purchase land on which county buildings stand today. He made the first effort to reduce county taxes ever proposed in Caswell County and at the same time was able to expand public property. Lastly he served as compromiser in securing land from the Graves brothers on which two court houses were eventually built. The town of Yanceyville compliments his name for his service to his native county.

After the death of his widow, the James Yancey home was sold to Durrett Oliver and later to James Rudd. His grave is in a periwinkled plot nearby. The house stands in ruins on county road 1748 east of Route 62 south of Yanceyville just south of Pinson Creek,

The children of James and Zilpah Yancey were: James Monroe Yancey who moved to Arkansas where he taught school; William Yancey married Demarius Oliver (see article on Reuben Oliver); Dr. Albert Gallatin Yancey (see article); Mary Elizabeth Yancey who married James Gunn and had one child who married Joseph Pennix; and Mildred Yancey who married James Malone of Leasburg. The two Malone sons, James and John died before adulthood.

THE YARBOROUGH FAMILY

The Yarborough family is indeed one of our country's early pioneer families. Yarboroughs have been here since colonial times. Genealogical studies and records show that there were at least three main Yarbrough immigrants to America from England before 1800:

- (1) Richard Yarborough to Amelia County, Va., in 1653 from Lincolnshire.
- (2) Ambrose Yarborough to Amelia County. Va., in 1732 from Yorkshire.
- (3) Guy Yarborough between 1750 and 1760 to Va., from Lincolnshire.

It is generally assumed that most of the Yarboroughs, Yarboros, Yarbros, Yarbroughs, Yarbers, Yarberrys, and Yarbys, as well as other variations of the name, in the United States today have descended from these three men. Their sons, grandsons and great-grandsons migrated from Virginia west into Kentucky, and south into the Carolinas, and thence into Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi.

The English Yarborough family "is one of ... great antiquity" (5) and can actually be traced back, thanks to old monastery records which were unearthed in World War II bombings, in an unbroken chain to the year 853 A.D. when the house of Yarburgh was formed by Germund. The family was of Danish origin (6) and it is generally assumed that its progenitors came into the country (England known as Angleland) during the Danish Invasion of about 800 A.D. (7). The Danes in England, historically, being enemies of the Anglo-Saxons, sided with William the Conqueror of Normandy during his invasion of 1066 (8). As a result, William awarded these Danes various estates when he came to power (9). According to records which were extant before World War II, Eustachius de Yarburgh (a descendant of Germund) was made Lord of Yarburgh, County Lincoln.

The Yarborough family is reportedly the eleventh oldest recorded family in England (11).

- (2) Yarbrough letter, supra, stating that the immigration of Ambrose Yarbrough to America could be proved by family records of Prof. E.W. Branyon whose mother was a grandchild of Ambrose Yarbrough.
- (3) Affidavit of G.L. Yarbro, Jackson, Tenn., stating facts of his family.

MEMORIES OF CASWEL (Yarbrough)

Down the road and through the woo Grandma's house we went to spend the mer - my mother Mary Virginia Floy daddy Flectcher John Yarbrough, ar three sisters Virginia Wiltbank, Ruth St Ella Skinner and me. I'm Mary Roberts

Who were Grandpa and Grandma? Layton Yarbrough (1860-1940) and Graves McSherry (1860-1936) They h children: Fletcher John (1884-1957), Emerson (1886-1924), Ashley (1888-Artie James (1889-1958), Madie (1892-1972) and Robert Marvin (1895-

They lived in Semora in a beautiful sitting alone on top of a hill, surround huge maple trees. Margaret Louise cousin, lived with them. Her daddy was ' (Robert M.), Margaret's mother died she was small and grandpa and gra reared her.

I can see them now standing at the gate waving as we emerged from the v into a clearing that would take us to this h We always arrived in a 1922 Velie Autor with luggage racks piled high on the ru boards.

What a summer was in store for us! Grandpa raised tobacco and a little everything including his voice to all of us we got into mischief. He was a quiet ma very little to say as I remember but we lis when he did talk.

Grandma was a lively Irish lady that th spanking was a good way to discip ine a I got my share, well deserved.

How did three months pass so quickly a dull moment. Some of us would go tobacco fields to pull worms and "tote": The work was worth the ride on the wage night spent at the barn was always a tre smelled good too, tobacco curing on the ters, ears of corn and potatoes in the co the flue.

While we kids were playing, Grandm Mother were always busy with their ch Washing clothes, working in the garden remember the Saturday afternoon ballies in the field across the railroad tracks in the depot. We would put on our best and walk down there and root for the reteam. After the game we would check post office for mail. The post office was run pushed by the store of candy from Mr. George ok's store. I think it was a funeral parlor ind the store. I know he buried people. In Sundays we would all pile in the Velie go to the Red House Presbyterian Church. vas on the highway next to Uncle Bob's ise.

arandpa and Grandma are buried in the netery behind the church in the family plot, ng with their youngest son Bob and his wife Vanhook, their youngest daughter Madie liam and her two sons, Eugene and John. After the services we would speak to the tlocks, Chandlers, Hunts and Pointers to ne a few, then back through the woods to a dinner. There were always so many to eat Sundays sometimes we kids had to take a d "tater" and wait, but there was always d left over.

Sundays were always a special day 'cause would go visiting. Sometimes we went to Aunt Virgie's and Uncle Oscar Hudgins. By lived in Turbeville, Virginia. They had it children; Annie Chandler, Elsie Long, ry Webster and Peter Hudgins. Uncle Oscar ned a country store. He sold gasoline and ille he was pumping gas we would sneak in the cker and run for the pickle barrel, candy and have been known to remove a bolt of rd goods to make us dresses.

We would also go to visit our Uncle Ashley d Aunt Minnie Willis and cousin Dorothy. ey lived in Estelle. There was a big windmill Uncle Ashley's back yard and Aunt Minnie d a beautiful organ in the parlor. Dorothy uld play the organ for us and we would all ig and have a good time. Then, everybody and happy and full of watermelon and sen apples, we would wind our way back ough the woods to Grandpa and Grandma's use and fall into big feather beds reliving the st wonderful week and dreaming of the leks to come.

Summer ends, time to leave for Portsouth, as we go down the road to the woods th tears in our eyes, I'd look back and there ands Grandpa, Grandma and Margaret wavg goodby.

ALSE FLEMING YARBROUGH 842

Algie Fleming Yarbrough, grandson of avid Yarbrough, who served in the Confedere Army with the Carolina Regiment, Leasurg Grays from 1863 to 1865, and fifth son of enry Mitchell Yarbrough and Ida Virginia Dixmoved with his parents and the four brothers, later to be four more brothers and one sister, to Caswell County, where his father bought a 300-acre farm in the Estelle Community in Milton Township.

Yarbrough grew up on farmland well-suited for producing tobacco and corn. Bright-leaf tobacco was grown on 20 acres of land, and corn was grown on the rich bottom land producing additional 75-80 barrels of corn. Yarbrough remembers pinhookers buying the tobacco hanging in the barn at 32¢ a pound with a yield of 1,000 pounds per acre. The father, a progressive farmer, noted for his innovative ideas, drove a model T-Ford which cost $250-$300 and ran a sawmill, a molasses mill, and a threshing machine at different times during his productive years. Abundant wildlife yielded food and sport. Deer, wild turkeys, along with quail and dove, were abundant

From 1909-1916 Yarbrough walked 21/2 miles daily to a one-room school in the Estelle Community where he and thirty others were taught by Miss Annie Taylor, sister of Mr. Nat Taylor, who drove her horse and buggy three miles to school. They took their lunch in a bucket, had an hour for lunch (and for playing co-ed tag, stealing base and stealing partners). His second teacher was Mr. Thomas Bryant, son of Mr. Billy Bryant, and his third teacher was a young lady, Miss Letha Jarman from Freemont, North Carolina, whose parents had bought the Rainey Farmain Caswell County. Miss Jarman boarded at the home of Mr. George Stevens, now called the Morefield Place, located between Estelle and Milton. A two-month summer school was called "Subscription School" for those students whose parents paid approximately $1.00 a month for instruction by Mrs. Williams, a widow who lived at the Rainey Place. Yarbrough remembers going by horse and wagon to the county commencement at the Yanceyville Courthouse where he and the other graduates sat in the jury box and listened to Superintendent of County Schools, George Anderson, deliver an address and then present diplomas.

In 1922 Yarbrough married Frances Sue Barker, daughter of Edward Howell Barker and Frances Fullington Barker of Caswell County, and continued to live on the farm he grew up on. He is the father of three daughters. Virginia Yarbrough (Powell), Arctic Frances Yarbrough (Downing) and Bradeen Barker Yarbrough (Short). He also has four grandsons, one granddaughter and two great-granddaughters.

Yarbrough was an active member of Shiloh Church, one of the oldest Baptist churches in Caswell County, where he served as Sunday School teacher, deacon, and lay minister. In 1929 he was licensed to preach by his pastor, the Rev. Walter Tillman and Clerk of the Church, Mr. Robert Slaughter, and board of deacons who sanctioned and encouraged his preaching. In 1943 Yarbrough was ordained by the Rev. Frank L. Israel. Yarbrough attended Campbell College, Buies Creek, N.C. (now a University) and Wake Forest College (now University in Winston-Salem, N.C.).

Yarbrough's first pastorate was at Starling Avenue Baptist Church, Martinsville, Virginia. He later moved to Milton, N.C. where he served as pastor of a field of churches: Milton, Ephesus, Blanch, and Beulah; also Shiloh and Alton

During his ministry he served churches both in Virginia and North Carolina. In 1949 he moved to Princeton, North Carolina where he was pastor of Princeton Baptist Church and Sardis Baptist Church. Returning to Milton in 1950 he became pastor of Milton Baptist Church, Blanch Baptist Church and Sandy Creek Baptist Church in Sutherlin, Virginia. He later became pastor of Sandy Creek Church and Blanch Church, serving the Blanch Church as pastor for 38 years. He served as pastor of Semora Baptist Church during his years of semi-retirement.

Yarbrough served three times as moderator of the Beulah Association, and in 1976 the association honored him for his many years of service to the association. During his ministry of 45 years, 1937-1983, the longest of any Baptist minister in Caswell County, he married approximately 150 couples and conducted approximately 800 funerals.

When interviewed in 1983, Yarbrough responded to some personal questions. When asked what he considered his greatest accomplishment in life, he said, "the ability to deliver sermons for so many years" and "to what do you contribute your long life?" he said, "being conservative (temperate)."

As for civic involvements, he was active first in the Junior Order and then in the Rotary Club, Lions Club, and Ruritan Club of Caswell County.

As for politics, he has been an active voter. He has private but not public commitments.

When asked what advice he has for young people, he said, "Work in gainful employment; attend church; and share (be neighborly.)"

Asked to name a favorite hymn of his he quickly responded, "Savior, More Than Life to verses, he said, "Without faith, it is impossible to please God."

In 1983 Yarbrough retired, and he continues to live in Milton in the home he and Mrs. Yarbrough purchased in 1959. The house, one of the oldest in Milton, dates back to mid 1800s.

JOHN B. YARBROUGH

John B. Yarbrough, born January was a son of Joseph J. Yarbrough wife, Mary Herring Yarbrough. They tame from Lunenburg County, Virginia, in 1829. They settled at Yarbrough's Mill where Joseph Yarbrough and his brother, Richard Yarbrough owned the mill. John B. Yarbrough was born in Caswell County. He married his cousin, Mary Louisa Harrison, daughter of William Johnson Harrison and wife, Temperance Dianitia Yarbrough Harrison.

John B. Yarbrough attended Trinity College, the forerunner of Duke University. The "B" in his name did not stand for any name. When the War Between the States was declared, he enlisted with the Milton Blues and served in the Thirteenth Regiment, N.C. Troops. This regiment was all but annihilated at Gettysburg. His brother, Joseph Yarbrough, was killed in that battle. John B. Yarbrough was wounded, taken prisoner and imprisoned on Johnson's Island. He always limped afterwards and would explain that he had a Yankee souvenir, a minie ball, in his knee.

Because of his health following the war, his doctor advised him to work out-of-doors. Being mechanically inclined, he became a mill-wright. His obituary states that "In his business of contractor and builder, monuments to his ability are the Market House at Danville, Va. and the first dam built across the Dan River at that place."

In his community, he was known as 'Squire Yarbrough because he was a Justice of the Peace there for many years. He was one of the early members of the Shiloh Baptist Church as was his wife. They moved to the Semora community in 1878. They worshipped at Fied

House Presbyterian Church and Shiloh until the Semora Baptist Church was organized in 1906. He, his wife, and two daughters were among the ten charter members of that organization. He remained faithful to his church from its beginning until his death in 1922. He built and presented the pulpit stand which has been in continuous use since 1907.

John B. Yarbrough and his wife were the parents of six children: Jesse Walton Yarbrough, married Sarah Virginia Wilkins; Ella Temperance Yarbrough, married John Henry McAden; Louis Thomas Yarbrough, married Martha Lavinia Ellis; Mary John Yarbrough, married Walter Lee Taylor; Edgar Calvin Yarbrough, married Martha Scholar Harris; and Daniel Harrison Yarbrough, married Cordie Heath.

John B. Yarbrough believed in education and he provided for the education of his children. As was the custom in the times in which they grew up, they attended the neighborhood private schools.

Jesse Walton Yarbrough attended Wake Forest College and became a realtor and insurance agent. Ella Temperance Yarbrough was a graduate of Oxford Female Seminary and was valedictorian of her class. She taught school for many years and later was Postmaster at Semora for twenty years.

Louis Thomas Yarbrough was a graduate of the first class at A. and M. College, now North Carolina State University in Raleigh. He later taught mathematics there. He was a postal spector for more than thirty years.

Mary John Yarbrough attended Milton Female Academy and the University of Virginia and became a teacher.

Edgar Calvin Yarbrough attended A. and M. College. While there, he enlisted in the Spanish-American War and was in the Medical Corps. In civilian life he was a superintendent with Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company for many years.

Daniel Harrison Yarbrough attended the local schools and later went to Texas to become a conductor on the Cotton Belt Railroad.

When John B. Yarbrough returned from the war, he vowed he would never be hungry again. He possessed a farm where he cultivated tobacco and corn. In his vegetable garden he planted many kinds of vegetables and berries. He had two orchards where there were many kinds of fruits. He provided for his family in many ways for there were hogs, sheep, chickens and cows.

He was proud of his garden. One Sunday, when he had gotten ready for Sunday School a little early, he walked out in the garden to look at the vegetables. He saw a few weeds and forgot about the day. He picked up his hoe and went to work. One of his neighbors saw him d called: "John Yarbrough, don't you know it's Sunday?" He dropped that hoe like it might have been hot and returned to the house with a chagrined expression.

John B. Yarbrough was a Mason, a member of the Golden Fleece Lodge which was disbanded in 1918. When the Caswell Brotherhood was organized, he became a member of House Presbyterian Church Cemetery.

John B. Yarbrough served his day and generation in many ways. In his church he was deacon, Sunday School teacher, Superintendent. In his community he was a Justice of the Peace and County Commissioner. In all of his dealings with his fellow man he was held in high esteem.

WEBB CHIPMAN YARBROUGH 846

Webb Chipman Yarbrough was born January 30, 1877 in Caswell County near Milton. N.C., second son of Charles Joel Yarbrough and Person County Jessie Mary Bradsher Yarbrough. In 1844 while Webb was a young boy, his father realized a cherished dream by buying and moving his family into the Calvin Graves home in Locust Hill. This remained a family domicile until the death of the last surviving son, Woodfin B. Yarbrough, who returned after retiring from a distinguished career as electrician with Detoit Copper Mining Co. in Aio... Arizona. Other children of Charles Joel and Jessie Mary were Charles Garrett, who eventually settled in California; Zachariah Thomas. who spent his life at the homeplace; Edwin Seach, who established his homestead in Durham: Mary Daisy, whose married life to Charles Godwin was spent in Norfolk, Va.: Joseph Connor, who settled in Chicago; and Clem Covington who returned to Locust Hill after military service in World War I.

After the death of Jessie Mary, Charles Joel married neighbor, Roberta Worsham, and this marriage was blessed with two girls, Mabel Clair, who married Hall Smith and lives in Brevard and Margaret Arnold, who married Norman S. Upchurch and lives in Yanceyville.

Webb was the grandson of Joseph Joel and Emily Chipman Yarbrough. At age twenty-five Joseph Joel demonstrated his business ability by buying and developing a thriving business known as Yarbrough Mills located on what is now the Yarbrough Mill Road in Caswell County. The mills included a grist mill, flour mill and sawmill. Two years later he bought the Gus Yarbrough Mill on Country Line Creek and around this eventually developed an industrial village including a foundry, woodworking shop, blacksmith shop, general store and later a post office named Yarbro. Joseph Joel gained recognition for his mechanical ability and his service as an expert in water wheel installation was in constant demand. This mechanical apitude appears in successive generations, as each generation produced engineers, one of which was Webb Chipman Yarbrough.

At age fourteen Webb left the homestead to enter A & M College, now N.C. State University. After leaving A & M he worked with Westinghouse Electric and Mfg. Co. in Pittsburg, Pa. for twelve years. However, the yen to return to the clean air of Caswell County led marksmanship in bird hunting, earning the reputation for bagging twice as many birds as he fired shells.

Webb took time from hunting, farming and wheat thrashing activities to woo and wed Ida Wilson Siddle, daughter of Billy and Laura Watlington Siddle of Locust Hill. Leaving the Yarbrough household to join his new wife in the Siddle household was accompanied by a shift from farming to merchandising. He opened a local country store stocked with needs of surrounding farmers, including kerosene for lamps; clothing, especially shoes, overalls and straw hats; staple groceries, canned or dried; and small farm equipment, such as plow points, horse shoes, riails, etc. The traditional molasses barrel, sugar barrel and hoop cheese box were constantly filled and emptied as customers exchanged news bits around the store's tin wood heater.

Since farmers had money only once a year when tobacco was sold, it was necessary for "Mr. Webb" to sell on credit, entailing hours of bookkeeping and end of year totaling of bills. Barter sales were common during summer months using live chickens and eggs brought in to be traded for sugar, soap and basic household needs. Chickens were brought in hand using strips from worn out clothing to tie their feet together to prevent escape. Two eggs worth of candy was frequently the reward for the child who came to do the shopping.

Webb also helped farmers with special projects through loans secured by deeds of trust. Repeated default on payment of such loans made it necessary for "Mr. Webb" to buy the land to save his initial investment. In this way his dealings in farm land increased.

Webb's "do it yourself" philosophy was evidenced in his purchase of the old Monticello School building from which he salvaged lumtore down the building and hauled usable materials to Locust Hill using two Model T bed trucks. With the same helper he built and wired the house using a built-over dynamo with storage batteries to provide electricity.

Webb's interest in the economy of the county led him to help establish and maintain the Bank of Yanceyville, of which he served as president until time needed for personal business prompted him to move from president to chairman of the Board of Directors.

To Webb and Ida were born four girls; Zora Wilson, Dorothy Dean, Rachel Ann and Sara Louise. As a strong supporter of Locust Hill Methodist Church, Webb took his family to Sunday School and preaching services regularly. Early in life the children were constantly taught to value an education. College attendance was discussed as an unquestionable sequence after public school. Zora, Dorothy and Rachel graduated from Woman's College UNC, Greensboro and Sara from Elon College.

Zora taught in Durham until her illness and death in 1976. After obtaining a Master's degree from Boston University and teaching in Boston and Washington, D.C., Dorothy returned to Caswell County to marry Agricultural Extension agent, J. Ellard Zimmerman, who came to Caswell from Davidson County. After teaching in the county for eight years she served as instructional supervisor of public schools until retirement in 1982.

Rachel's marriage to Azariah Graves Thompson interrupted her brief teaching capeer as she became homemaker for banker Azzie" and their subsequent family of four girls. At the time of his retirement in 1983, "Azzie" had served as president of the Lincolnton-Mooresville Bank until its merger with NCNB the previous year.

Sara left the county to work in Burlington, first as secretary and then as teacher. Her marriage to Lyman Lamm was blessed with one child, Alisa, who gained recognition as a collegiate tennis player. After Lyman's death Sara married John Paul Swails, packaging engineer with Burlington Industries, and continues to live in Burlington.

"Mr. Webb's" life had an impact on Caswell County. Although a shrewd investor and business man, he lived a simple life, spending little on himself, but helping many in time of need. It was said of him that prisoners working on the road never left the store at lunch break without a small gift of candy or cigarettes. His support of community functions and compassion for shut-ins and those less fortunate than he resulted in help given without fanfare or publicity. His death in 1956 left a void in the community, but his life left a family and community heritage which lives on.

THE JOHN YATES FAMILY

John Yates was b. ca. 1712. He d. prior to 22 June, 1779, in Caswell County, NC. He was married to his first wife by 1748. My research has not shown the name of his first wife. Tradition has been handed down that her maiden name was Kilgore. The records I have researched do not show when or where John Yates was born.

John Yates was one of the Virginia-born petitioners living with his family on the north side of Orange County, NC, in 1771. He held land grants in Bedford and Halifax Counties, VA. While living in Caswell County, NC, he sold land in Halifax County, VA, to Edward Parker. John served in the Colonial and American Revolutionary War. He and three of his sons served in the American Revolutionary War from the Hillsborough District. John Yates received a NC land warrant in TN with William Yates, Thomas Yates, and Thomas Kilgore, Jr., as witnesses.

John Yates had eight children by his first wife. His first wife died in VA, and he married 2nd Sara Price, widow of John Price, after 1772. The children of John Yates and his first wife, Yates, were as follows: William, Thomas, John Jr., James, Joyce, Keziah, Elizabeth, and Milly Yates. All except John Yates, Jr., came to what later became TN.

(1) William Yates, b. 1749, married Agnes Price, daughter of Sara and John Price, after March, 1779. He d. 1845 in Robertson County, TN. William served three tours in the American Revolutionary War from NC. On pension file for his brother, Thomas Yates, William stated that "he fought for Liberty and did not ask for a pension." He and his brothers, Thomas and James Yates, are listed in early records in Caswell County, NC, 1777-1798. William was appointed inspector of tobacco and flour at Milton. He and Agnes had twelve children, all b. in Caswell County, NC; John Price, Mary, Sara, William, Jr., Milly, Elizabeth, Martha, James, Idah, Agnes, Nellie, and Susanna.

Two known marriages of the children of William and Agnes Price Yates took place in Caswell County, NC. Mary, b. 1785, married James McNeeley September 6, 1804. Sara married Blueford Warren February 14, 1803. James, b. 1796, d. 1879, in Robertson County, TN, married Mary Brooks in Stokes County, NC July 2, 1823. Elizabeth married James Brooks of Surry County, NC, son of Matthew Brooks. William Yates and his family are listed in Caswell County, NC, until about 1810. When his wife died and he and his family moved to Robertson County, TN. where William d. in 1845.

(2) Thomas Yates was b. 1752, Bedford County, VA, d. March 5, 1834, in Robertson County, TN. He married Rebecca Ragsdale December 22, 1776, in Orange County, NC, daughter of William and Ann Parker Ragsdale. He served in the Revolutionary War where he drew a pension. After his death his wife Rebecca drew his pension. Thomas took the Oath of Allegiance in 1777, in Caswell County, NC, Use and Rebecca had seven children: Charles, Rebecca, Henrietta, Nellie, W. Lowis, and Thomas Yates, Jr. Thomas Ragsdale Yates and their listed in Caswell County, NC, from before they moved to Robertson County. Three of their children married into the Isbell family.

Last Will and Teltument of Joseph Yarbrough Lunenburg County, Virginia

I, Joseph Yarbrough make and ordain this to be my last will and testament in manner and form following (to wit) in the first place my will and desire is that all my just debts be paid. Item. I give to my son Richard Yarorough, Nancy P. Knight, Polly A. Hardy and Martha Ellington, property which they have now in their possession, and which to be accounted for as charged in my books at the value the time they and each of them receive the same. I also give to my daughter Fannie F. Yarbrough and Joseph Yarbrough the same proportion of property when either of them or both marrys or come to lawful age or leave my family. My daughter Sallie B. Holmes I give one shilling provided she does not come into the measure of my other children (to wit) Richard, Polly, Fanny, Martha, Nancy E. Knight and my son Joseph, on a deed of trust so as to secure the free right and privilige to my present wife and children to remain upon and hold free from any interruption during her life or widowhood upon that part of the land inherited from their mother, Temperance Yarbrough, and should the said Sally B. Holmes make any attempt to dispossess or endeavor to draw her part in the life time or widowhood of my said wife, she shall not be entitled to any part of my estate, and should my said daughter Sallie B. Holmes obtain a decree to draw her part of the aforesaid land, I wish my executors to purchase the same for the benefit of my wife and children, and should my said daughter Sally B. Holmes sign and acknowledge the aforesaid trust deed in that case I wish her to have an equal part given her as those of ber brothers and sisters which I have advanced to. If the one half the mill is decreed to be sold, I wish my executors to purchase the same as part of my estate. My will and desire is that after the death or intermarriage of my wife in that case I wish an equal division of the whole of my estate real and personal to be equally divided among all my children, including the first set as well as those of my present wife taking into account the amount of which my set of children may receive or inherit from their grand father and mother, which said amount is to be charged to them as is valued when received. My desire and meaning is that all my children both from my first wife and second wife shall be made equal including what my first set of children may receive from my estate including my second set of children by my present wife both as to what they may receive so as to be equal. My will and desire is that all my estate be kept together after giving off those specific legacies, and when either of my children by my first wife or second wife marries or leaves my family I wish them to have an advance given them as those of my first wife's children who have left me, and upon the same terms. Lastly I appoint my beloved wife, Polly Yarbrough, John W. Yarbrough, and David Street the elder to be my executors of this my last will and testament and desire my executor, David Street, would take the burden of my business upon himself until all my are finally settled. After which I wish him to give up the balancto my wife and son John W. Yarbrough, and wish they may not be held to give security. Given under my hand and seal this the tenth day of May in 1827.

Chird Constation

Joseph Yarbrough, the sixth child of William and Diana Carey Smith Yarbrough, was born November 6, 1758, and died near Lunenburg County Court House, Virginia, in 1828. In the clerk's office of Prince Edward County, Farm-ville, on December 19, 1785, he wed Temperance Walton, who was born in 1767. In Brumbaugh's Revolutionary War Records of Virginia, page 279, Joseph Yarbrough is listed as soldier in the infantry. However, in listing the inventory at his death, be was listed as Captain Joseph Yarbrough. Old Free State, Vol.1, p.334, "Joseph Yarbrough Justice of County Court 1789 to 1828 Lunenburg County." 90 124 "Joseph Yarbrough from Lunenburg County a commissioner for supervising the presidential election 1800."

Immediately after their marriage Joseph Yarbrough and his wife, Temperance, settled in Lunenburg County, Virginia, on a farm given Temperance, by her father, George Walton. This was on the Meherrin River on the main road from the Double Bridge to Petersburg, then called the Church Road but in 1946 called the Court Eouse Road.

On Dec. 6, 1787, Joseph bought 100 acres adjoining this farm and continued purchasing lands adjoining until he had bought 737 acres. At the time of his death, in 1828, Joseph had amassed quite a fortune and gave liberally to his children when they were married. In consideration of these gifts the children of Temperance gave a deed of trust on the land that George Walton had given Temperance to assure Joseph's second wife a home as long as she lived. This deed of trust was given March 2, 1822. Temperance died prior to this date. After Joseph's death in 1828 an inventory of his property was recorded on January 17, 1829, and included carding machinery, spinning wheels, I pair carding bars and spool frame, 46 geese, I carriage, I London Still (made in London), 29 head of cattle, 5 work horses, 3 bee hives, 26 slaves and other small items, also 5,000 pounds of tobacco valued at $3.50 per hundred pounds. A sale of property and slaves was made at Lunenburg Court House on February 10, 1845, and 16 slaves brought $4,890.10 and other property sold for $7,802.97.

To Joseph and Temperance Yarbrough were born:

Frances T. Yarbrough
Sallie Burton, wed Curtis R. Holmes, Jan. 8, 1821
Macy A., wed Joshua Hardy, Dec. 27, 1820
Martha, wed Creed Ellington, Oct. 19, 1821

Fourth Concration

Richard Yarbrough, the son of Joseph Yarbrough and Temperance Walton Yarbrough, was born in Lunenburg County, Virginia, January 16, 1793. He died in Caswell County, N. C., December 2, 1860. Adjoining the farm of Joseph Yarbrough on the Meherrin River in Lunenburg Co., Va., was a well-to-do farmer named Joel Johns. To him and his wife was born Tabitha Johns, July 20, 1794. On December 23, 1817, Tabitha Johns and Richard Yarbrough were wed. They moved to Caswell County, N. C., and on April 6, 1819, Richard bought from Richard Ogilby 300 acres of land in Caswell County, N. C., on Country Line Creek near Milton, for which be paid $ 5,000.00, and kept up the purchase of small tracts for two years and then, for $2,000., bought one half interest in 100 acres and the mill on both sides of Country Line Creek. This was bought November 15, 1821, and the mill consisted of both a grist and saw mill and later became known as Yarbrough's Mill. This was bought from Henry M. Clay, and on January 12, 1829, Richard's helf brother, Joseph, bought the other half from Henry M. Clay for $1,500. Richard kept up the purchases until be bad bought 1, 438 acres in Caswell County. On April 6, 1833, he bought from J. I. Oliver, for $320.10, one Negro girl, one house and lot in Milton, N. C., called The Eagle Tavern, one sorrell mare, one saddle and bridle, and two trunks. In 1837 Richard bought the balf interest in the mill belonging to Joseph. However, it seems that business went against him, for on July 4, 1848, his son, Joseph Joel Yarbrough, bought from John L. Dodson, trustee for Richard Yarbrough, the mill site including grist mill, saw mill, merchants flour mill, foundry and dwelling, known as Gus Yarbrough Mill on Country Line Creek. On July 25, 1846, Joseph Joel had bought from N. I. Palmer, trustee for Richard Yarbrough, the Yarbrough Mill tract and all interest of Richard Yarbrough in the Martha Walton estate of Prince Edward County, Va.

To Richard and Tabitha were born the following children:

Temperance Dianisha, October 1, 1819, who wed William I. Harrison, June 5, 1833.

Joseph Joel, born June 24, 1821, died April 28, 1896. Wed Rebecca Emily Chipman, October 31, 1848. She was born January 11, 1823, and died August 5, 1892.

Martha Henrietta, born April 19, 18 23, wed Dabney Terry ( his second wife) June 23, 1846, died Nov. 13, 1871.

Richard Lauriston, born Dec. 26, 1824, died Feb. 23, 1826.

Thomas Scott, born June 6, 1827, died Nov. 27, 1860. Wed Elizabeth A. Terry, born 1838, daughter of Dabney Terry, Feb. 12, 1850.

Sallie Bett, born Nov. 10, 1829, wed Abner Terry, son of Dabney Terry.

Saluda I., born Oct. 30, 1831, died Sept. 15, 1832.

George Walton, born Oct. 12, 1833, and wed Bettie Fitzgerald of Danville, Virginia.

Pictures of the homes of Richard and Tabitha Johns Yarbrough and of Joseph Joel and Emily Chipman Yarbrough were not available, so my brother, Charles G. Yarbrough, who visited these homes when quite young has written good descriptions, from memory, which are presented herewith.

The Richard Yarbrough Home. In the early eighteen eighties the Yanceyville-Semora road crossed Country Line Creek at Yarbrough's Mill. Today's bridge is on the same road practically at the same original location. The main mills, as of that date, were flour, grist, and lumber sawing, all located on the east bank of the creek and just below the bridge with power dam closely interposed between the bridge and the buildings. Going west over this bridge up the hill approximately one mile is Shiloh Meeting house, a Baptist Church. West from the bridge, and closely adjacent thereto, the road passed a black-smith shop, a pattern shop, a foundry, and a general shop, which latter of today would be called a machine shop. Next came the general store, the post office named Yarbro, short for Yarbrough. These all were less than one-eighth of a mile from the bridge.

Just west and to the rear of the store building, a side road turned south and led to the Richard Yarbrough residence only a short distance away. This home was finished in a brown or dark red, due to the contour of the surrounding area. The approach, slightly down grade, was bordered on each side by beautiful tall elm trees. The home, a two story structure, had a long wide porch in front, and a gable in the roof to light the attic. A wide hall led from the front entrance through the house to a porch at the rear. The room at the right of the entrance was used as a living room and the one on the left was a stately parlor. Both were beautifully furnished with handsome mahogany and rosewood pieces. To the rear of the parlor the commodious dining room was well lighted with its large windows on the south side and equipped with furniture similar to that in the other parts of the home. Back of the dining room, separated from the main body of the house by a long covered porch, was the kitchen. The other downstairs and upstairs rooms were bedrooms.

Farm houses for stock and equipment were some distance in the rear and between them and the kitchen was an ice house. This was a large pit, probably fourteen feet square and equally as deep, walled on four sides with logs, resembling a tobacco barn built in the ground. During the winter ice was harvested from the mill pond and stored here. This covered with leaves or sawdust supplied the family with ice until late fall, and also served as a cool place for vegetables, milk, butter and meats.

It was in these surroundings that Richard and Tabitha Yarbrough lived, reared their family and reaching old age died. Richard died December 2, 1860, and Tabitha lived several years longer.

Fifth Commetion

Joseph Joel Yarbrough was the second child born to Richard and Tabitha Johns Yarorough and was born in Caswell Co., North Carolina, mear Milton, June 24, 1821. On October 31, 1848, he wed Rebecca Emily Chipman of Guilford County, N. C., who was born January 11, 1825, and died August 5, 1892. He was an energetic member of Shiloh Baptist Church and took active part in the public worship. At age twenty-five, on July 25, 1846, be bought from a trustee of his father, the Yarbrough Mills which included grist mill, flour mill and saw mill. In 1848 he bought the Gus Yarbrough Mill on Country Line Creek. However, bis chief interest centered in the Yarbrough Mill about five miles from Milton and likewise on Country Line Creek. Here be developed quite a little village and industrial center by adding a foundry, wood working shop, patter shop, blacksmith shop and general store, and later a post office which was named Yarbro. In those days there were very few railroads, so the products of his plants had to be hauled to their destination by wagons. Such a unit consisted of a heavy covered wagon, six mules or horses and two men. This wagon loaded with products from the mills or foundry would take a six week trip in surrounding counties selling and delivering to the dealers. Likewise. they picked up grains for the mills and scrap iron for the foundry. In addition to this industrial center, be bought several tracts of land nearby and was considered a good farmer also. During the civil war be won the title of Captain which remained with him throughout his life. He also worked in a Confederate Munition Plant in Salisbury, N. C., as a foreman. When he returned to his home and work after the war he did a prosperous business until railroads became active, and not being accessible to one, his business began to be pushed out by competition of such plants which had access to railroad facilities and could be shipped ino them and their products out so much cheaper than Joel Yarbrough could handle his products by wagon freight. As this line of work dwindled he became much interested in water wheel installations and was considered an expert. He was sought after over a wide territory. His ideas of mechanics were quite ahead of those common in his day. He also kept up extensive farming operations. In his will be left to each of his five living children a nice farming tract of land, as well as other property. At his desth on April 26, 1896, he was buried near bis home on the bill above the mills. There seems to be no markers and it is now difficult to locate either his grave or that of his wife, who was buried at his side.

To Joseph Joel and Emily Chipman Yarbrough were born six children:

Charles Joel Yarbrough, July 14, 1850, died Jenuary 2, 1919. On January 28, 1874, he wed Jessie Mary Bradsher of Person County, who was born Feb. 28, 1852.

Anne Elizabeth, born August 31, 1852, who wed Robert Edwin Jourdan.

Joseph Joel Yarbrough, Jr., born June 5, 1854, wed on Feb. 25, 1880, to Mildred J. Miles.

Richard, born September 5, 1856, who as a young man went to California and married. At his death the body was cremated and the ashes returned to Caswell County to be buried by the Masons. Name of his wife not known.

William, born Sept. 24, 1859, died August, 1861.

George Becuregard, born July 21, 1861, wed Tassie Miles, a sister of Mildred Miles, who married his brother Joseph.

production of the Parbrough Home. Going east or the Yanceyville-Semora hand fanding Chirch Meeting house and on down the hill across Country Line Creck and one mile up grade to the right on the top of the highest hill, three hundred yards from the road, was located the residence of Joseph Joel and Emily Chipman Yarbrough.

The house plan was that of a reversed left band L. The long part of the L lay east and west and was two stories high with four large rooms, hallway, steirs and a large attic. A porch at the middle on the north side was the front entrance. On the south side and at the west end was a rather commodious one story dining room.

The short portion of the L consisted of three large one story rooms. The layout plan was such that the northwest corner line of the one story section lay paralleled and along side of the southeast corner lines of the main structure. Thus while forming one house their building features were separate and apart. Outside entrance to the front or north room, was on the north side. Around the inside of this L enclosure was a wide porch from the dining room at the west end to a store room at the south end of the one story part. Doors from the three rooms opened on this porth as did the hall door to the main part of the building.

The north room of the one story part of the L was used as a combination office and living room, having a fire place in the middle of the north wall. My memory runs to where I would sit at grandfather's desk near the north door entrance and look at pictures in trade magazines, showing water wheels and other equipment offered to the milling industry. Quite a number of paintings hung on the walls.

Extending the west line of the two story section south and the south line of the one story west, a garden fence on these lines formed a rectangular flower garden and back yard. In the southwest corner of this enclosure was a well appointed, well equipped commodious kitchen. Along the fence line on the south end of the porch, was a glass bouse for the protection of flowers and plants during the cold weather and was dug out in the way of an uncovered basement.

Just west of the kitchen was a well grown elm tree under which was the terminus of an aerial tramway used for bringing water from a spring five hundred yards down the hill. This tramway was manually operated under the elm tree.

Around the house and flower yard enclosures was a larger fenced yard about four hundred yards east to west. Five hundred yards on the east line and six hundred fifty yards on the west line. The front gate of this larger yard on the north side was equipped with a mechanism for opening and closing the gate by the driver of an approaching vehicle without the necessity of his leaving his driver's seat. In both the southeast and southwest corners of the larger yard were commodious and well appointed houses for servents. Along the north end of the west side was a row of buildings for the farm tools, horses,

Just outside of the west side yard fence was a let a side. I remember many variaties of including figs. Through the center of this garden going west and down hill was a much used path, the short cut from the mills to home. Grandfather in the going and coming between the two could, and probably did hundred of times, shift his thinking from the toils of the day to the pleasures of his extensive gardens. In the more misty past I remember faintly going down the hill with him early one morning before breakfast. He went to the blacksmith shop to block out a circular saw, whether for his own saw mill or for some one else I don't know. With the work completed we climbed the hill and were back in time for breakfast. When I think today how kind, pleasant and agreeable he was with all around him, I can't help but wish that it had fallen to me to have spent much time with him around his shops end mills.

To the east of the yerd was a two acre orchard with an assorted variety of fruit trees. I particularly remember the plums and damsons.

Across the road a little west of the extended line of the west side fence were stables, feed barns, and other buildings and enclosures for cattle.

In spite of the fact that the creeks and mill pond were full of fish, there was within a mile of the house a private fish pond stocked with carp.

Where this delightful home was once located, probably not as much as one fence post can now be located. But to those who planaed and brought all this into being we certainly must give credit for a high degree of ability to both planning and execution.

Dear Mr. Yarbrough,

I was so glad to hear that you have attended some of the conferences. I have attended the ones in Petersburg VA, Nashville TN, and Charlotte NC. I missed the TX and MO conferences. On a librarian's salary, I can only afford to attend every other year. I am hoping to be able to attend the one in Memphis.

I am enclosing my pedigree chart, showing only the pertinent lines. The farthest back that my line is definitely established is Thomas in VA in 1747 (in the tax list, etc.). I am descended through his son, Zachariah etc. There is some disagreement on who is the father of this Thomas. I hope to see you in Memphis.

Letter:

Caswell 10 Febuary 1849 My Dear Son

I saw the letter you sent your father and was truly glad to hear from you, that you was well and had met with some Old acquaintances who was glad to see you. perhaps you have seen your Uncle William by this time. I want you to write me all about him and about him and about your aunt, Walls family, all of them. When you was in Arkinsaw was you at Mr. Harrisons. You said nothing about your cousin Temperances death. I want you to write to me how you get on in a strange Land. Can you get business to do? We have had a cold winter this fare. Roper is a widow again. Her second husband died in Three months after she married him. Maryann McCane is married to a Mr. Wilkerson. My son try to improve in writing. I praise you for what you do but I wish you could spell better. I mean no harm. I take great intrust in your wellfare. You have my warmest affections and I hope you will do well where ever you go. live in peace with all men. never keep bad company. let me hear from you how you get on and how you like Mississippi. I have said nothing about your fathers family. I suppose he has written to you himself. Thomas Yarbroughs health is bad. They have lost Wodson.

I now conclude by Saying I love you truly. Your grandmother. Dorothy Herring.

rephen Herring Yarbrough: Was in Mississippi in 1849. Received a letter from his randmother Dorothy Herring sent to the care of William Harrison. I have a copy of letter. In 1863 he was in Ala where he joined the Civ. War. In 1856 he was inchairy Co TN where he made a Power of Attorney to his brother Richard re: his art of the Estate of Dorothy Herring. I have Civ. War records; PCA.

Vere record Test Wm Aylett Cl Court

containing pay rolls, &c., of General Geo. Rogers Clarke's command. during the Northwestern Campaign; three books containing lists of soldiers and seamen of Virginia during the Revolution; a volume of Military Accounts, 1762-83; three volumes Revolutionary Army Accounts. volume of Revolutionary Paymasters Accounts; roster of officers of Continental Line; roster of officers of State Line; two volumes concerning the Revolutionary Army; list of Revolutionary Pensioners: list of Revolutionary Bounties; volume of Revolutionary Claims; report on Claims for Military Bounty Lands; return of Stores, 1779-80: account of Provisions, 1780, &c.; list of Certificates for Revolutionary Bounties, 1782-'3; Militia Returns, 1777-84 (this is only settlements of accounts by a portion of the militia officers of the State; but such as it is, is the only militia list extant); a number of volumes in regard 40 Clarke's Northwestern Campaign, and also numerous bundles of letters written to and from State officers and others during the war (1775-83). These last have been printed in the "Calendar of Virginia State Papers"; but the other books and documents in the archive room are, at present, practically inaccessible to the public. When the move to the new building is made they will, doubtless, be arranged, and made subject to examination, under proper restrictions with regard to their safety.

In the Library are manuscript journals of the Council for 1776-77 (indexed) and 1781, and 1781-33 without indexes. There are also various volumes relating to the State Navy and Committee of Safety. All of these books contain much information in regard to Revolutionary officers.

In the Library, too, can be found the printed journals of the Conventions of 1775 and 1776, and of the two Houses of Assembly during the war. These, of course, contain likewise much Revolutionary matter.

In the printed volumes of documents of the Assembly from 1833 to 1838, are included the reports of John Hill Smith, who was appointed a special commissioner on Revolutionary Claims. These reports embrace lists of officers and privates who had obtained their bounty before 1833, and of those who were entitled, but had not applied for the same.

It should be borne in mind that all of these lists of various sorts, in the various offices, relate to bounty claims, and that no person was entitled to bounty who had not served three years, so it is improbable that any record will be found in the Capitol where the person served less than three years. It should also be remembered, that with the exception given above, there are no militia lists preserved.

There is in the Library 2 manuscript list of all persons who (down to about 1845) applied to the Executive for bounty warrants, with a reference to the Council Journal, where the matter was acted on, and a statement when the claim was successful or rejected.

The Library contains the well-known publications of Saffell and Heitman, and has also a few Revolutionary rosters, purchased, from time to time, of private individuals.

A list of Officers and men from Virginia who served in the Continental Line.

Note to Karen: I notice you left out the following this time. Was it because you learned it wasn't correct or you just overlooked it. You had an asterisk by it indicating you had the original instrument. I have an extract of the same will which just names the children, wife and witnesses. So I was puzzled that you left it out. ## YARBOROUGH'S FERRY

King William County, Virginia

"Joseph Temple lived at 'Presqu'Isle' about two miles below Aylett's Warehouse. This tract of land is formed into an 'almost island' by the Mattapony River and a small stream known by the name of 'Spirit Run' --- a name suggestive either of the supernatural or of some individual who in times past may have indulged too freely in something stronger than its crystal waters. After feeding Aylett's mill pond Spirit Run flows into the river just about Pointer's Landing, thus cutting off a deep bend in the Mattapony and enclosing one of the most fertile farms on the north side of the county. 'Presqu'Isle' was Arnold property and it is likely that Joseph Temple acquired it by his marriage with Ann Arnold, daughter of Benjamin Arnold. Here was Arnold's Ferry, sometimes called Yarborough's Ferry, for many years the only crossing-place in this part of the country over the river to King and Queen."

"Benjamin Arnold (1703) 1,920 acres of land on Herring Creek and the Mattapony River, beginning at the mouth of the lower Herring Creek.

State of Georgia, Wilkes County 1779 August Court

Agreeable to an Order of his Honour, the President and the Honorourable the Supream Executive Councill for the State aforesaid, past in the Councill Chambers at Augusta the 25th day of August 1779

A Court of General Sessions, or Oier and Terminer and General Goal Delivery

Begun and held in the House of JACOB McCLENDON on the Twenty fifth day of August 1779, Before the Honourable WILLIAM DOWNS, BENJAMIN CATCHINGS & ABSALOM BEDELL, Esqrs. Assistant Judges for the County aforesaid.

In Court, HENRY MANADUE was appointed Clerk, who Took his place accordingly, after Being Duely Sworn according To Law.

196EPH SCOTT being sworn Sheriff for said County.

N DOLLY, Esqr., was appointed to act as an Attorney in Behalf of the State by this rt and was Duely Sworn.

The Court adjourned Till tomorrow nine oClock.

there were one hundred thirty-three known clashes between maruading gangs of Whigs and Tories. It was a sad day in Carolina -- neighbor against neighbor, brother against brother, father against son. A band of citizen Tories marched on Whigs camped at Ramsuer's Mill on the Catawba. In this "Battle of Neighbors" the pick-up uniforms were so near alike that enemies mingled. The Whigs won. Those who came to claim the fifty dead bodies of friends and relatives on both sides vowed to never again rise against each other, but as the scent of the beast trailed deeper into Carolina the lesson was forgotten.

Colonel Banastre Tarleton, chief of cavalry for Cornwallis, combined genius with sadism. He left the field strewn with dead and wounded enemies hacked by the swords of his dragoons. In an engagement in the Waxhaws, a few miles south of Charlotte Towne, Tarleton's victory over a Patriot force led by Colonel Buford tallied one hundred dead, one hundred and fifty so fiercely hacked that they had to be paroled where they lay, and only fifty three allowed to surrender. This was Tarleton's folly; he set the Patriots aflame, and they swore that from that day forward they would give no quarter and beg no quarter. "Tarleton's Quarter", they called it. Major Patrick Ferguson planted his army of Tories and Redcoats on the ridge of King's Mountain, and waited the attack of John Sevier and his mountain men. "The devil himself cannot dislodge me from this mountain", said Ferguson. Ferguson may have been well acquainted with the devil, but he didn't know John Sevier. Ferguson's troops were overrun, and even after the victory was theirs, the Patriots continued to kill. "Tarleton's Quarter", cried the mountain men, and the Waxhaws were revenged.

Although the number of Revolutionary soldiers from both the AMBROSE and Richard lines is an impressive list, not all were Whig Patriots; some were Tory Loyalists who remained steadfast with the Crown. An abstract from an entry in the old minute book, Giles County, Georgia, 1779 says, "Met in home of Jacob McLendon, thirteen miles from Herb's Fort, and declared nine Tories quilty, and to be hung in teh days." Clement Yarbrough was one of that number. We must admire Clement to Tory, for he was a courageous man who laid his life on the line for the cause he believed to be just. Clement was a Yarbrough of the Richard line who had emigrated to eastern Georgia from South Carolina.

In 1782 JONATHAN's neighbor Thomas White died intestate, and according to law his estate was sold at public auction. The sheriff's account of the sale tells us that the Yarbroughs attended enmasse. Sarah Yarbrough purchased one chest for one pound, ten shillings; Davis Yarbrough purchased a plow-hoe for fourteen shillings, six pence; Richard Yarbrough purchased one pewter pot, and one candlestick for six shillings and ten pence; Humphrey Yarbrough purchased one book for six pence; JONATHAN in the attached: Thore on Shenert Yarburough, the Yory.

From those published newspaper items we loarn that Clement Yerborough was a resident of St. Georges Perish, Joorgia in 1774. He was tried as a Tory in Vilkes County in 1777. From the long list of names published in the Georgia Casette in 1774, Clement Yarborough was not alone in his sentiments!

Durke County created from St. George Parish in 1777, and in Burke County records of find Thomas Yarborough, who was said in 1782, 20 lb. 17 shilkings, Superior for him of a wagun and team to the quartermaster's Department. Thomas Yarbrough also conved as a J.P. in Durke County in 1770, and in 1881 served as administrator of Thomas Tarmscound's column.

and also with General Lincoln at the sieges of Savannah and Augusta; was in the battles of King's Mountain and Kettle Creek, in Wilks county. It is said he also served with General Marion. He was captured by the British and, many years after, would relate to his grandchildren the hardships he, and his family of young children, then endured. His home place, says his grandson, Dr. James Oliver, was in Elbert county, on Beaver Dam creek, near "Stenchcomb Meeting House," where he died and was buried. Another grandson, Wm. T. O. Cook, of Georgia (yet living, 1898, at the age of 90), says he had a place in Wilks county, on the south side of Broad river, in the flatwoods, about three and a quarter miles above the mouth of Wahatchee creek. These lands were afterward owned by his sons, Peter and Rev. Florance McCarthy Oliver. There was a fort near by, called the "Block House" (now Washington), to which the people fled when attacked by Tories and Indians. When the men and boys, and their negro slaves, went to their work they carried guns lashed to their backs, even when ploughing. Wilks county began to be settled in 1770, when the Indian line of frontier was thrown farther out. "The young wife," continues her grandson, "was large and handsome, and gifted with great courage, and generally softened the hardships of her little family by playing to them spirited airs on the violin, of which she was the complete mistress, often dancing to its accompaniment, to the no small delight of her youthful audience. Such was the Nerre of the Women of the Revolution."

In an old minute book (bound in untanned hog's skin and yet preserved in Wilkes county, (ia.), of the revolutionary proceedings of 1779, in "the proceedings of the court, which met at the house of Jacob McLendon, Sr.," about thirteen miles from Heards Fort (now Washington), on the 25th of August. 1779, during which, after a summary trial, nine Tories were declared guilty, and hung in ten days after. Wilks county had neither court house nor jail at the time, and prisoners had to be closely guarded, and all able-bodied men were needed for the common defence, and judges did not feel they could waste the time of men who were anxious to serve their country, in guarding those who had sided with the British, Tories and Indians, in murders, pillage and arson. The nine Tories hung were, John Bennefield, James Mobley, Dread Wilder, Joshua Rials. Clement Yarbrough, Edmond Dormey, John Watkins, Wm. Crut hfield, and John Younge.

At the time, Savannah was in the hands of the British, and raiding parties of Tories and Indians disturbed the interior as far up as Augusta; and the people gave short shrift to the murderers when caught.

The Council had fled from Augusta, and established the State government, for a short time, in Wilks county, about six miles north of the site of Washington, and

We who have put our names to this paper, Inhabitants of the Parish of St. Matthew and Town of Ebenezer, think it necessary in this publick manner to declare, That, about the 4th day of this instant August, we ere told by certain persons that we must send a petition home to our (ing in regard to the Bostonians, to beg for relief, as a child begs a father when he expects correction, and that all those who would join must sign their names,* that they might know how many would be in this parish; and that, should we decline what was recommended, we must expect the Stamp Act imposed on us. By these and other like flattering words we were persuaded to sign, but we find that we were deceived, for that the people wh met at Savannah on the 10th instant did not petition our King, but made up a paper, which we think is very wrong, and may incur the displeasure of his Majesty so as to prevent us from having soldiers to help us in case of an Indian war. We therefore disagree entirely to the said paper, and do hereby protest against any resolutions that are or hereafter may be entered into on this occasion.

Using the Index with Search<sup>2</sup>

The easiest way to use the index is with the search capability available with the volume. That is, find the name in the index, then select "Edit" and then "Find" or just press CTRL+F to get a search field. Enter the indexed name or phrase and press ENTER. If the search term(s) is not found, nothing will happen; otherwise, the first page containing the search term(s) will be displayed with the term(s) high-lighted. Repeated pressings of the ENTER key will find any other occurrences of the search term(s) in the file.

The search capability can be used to search across several volumes, and entire folder or even an entire hard disk drive (which may take quite a long time.) Within the chosen directory or folder, press SHIFT+CTRL+F to obtain a listing of all the files in which the search term(s) occur. The user may browse for a particular drive or directory in which to search. The search will yield a listing of all the files in which the desired name or search term is found. Clicking on an individual file will provide the first occurrence of the search term(s) in the file. To find other occurrences, use CTRL+F as described above.

Searching for Indexed Terms<sup>1</sup>

First, find the name or phrase (search term) in the index. Then, from the menu bar, select "Edit", and then "Find" or press CTRL+F. A search field will appear in the upper right corner of the page. Enter the search term into this field and press ENTER. If the search term is not found, nothing will happen; otherwise, the search term will be displayed on the first page in which it occurs. Repeated pressing of the ENTER key will high-light other occurrences within the file. Use the left and right arrow buttons to the right of the search field to look ahead or to look backwards for other occurrences of the term in the document

A directory (folder) or even an entire hard drive may also be searched<sup>2</sup>. First, high-light the selected folder or drive and then press SHIFT+CTRL+F to obtain a listing of all the files in which the search term appears. Next, select and open an individual file to find the first occurrence of the search term(s) in the file, as described in the preceding paragraph.
